ANTICO SETIFICIO FIORENTINO

Peter Dundas, creative director, Pucci:

"Antico Setificio Fiorentino is an atelier in Florence that the Puccis have owned for centuries. It has always produced unique fabrics - silks that decorated, among others, the interiors of the Krenelin and the Quirinale."

Antico Setificio Fiorentino, via L. Bartolini 4, 50124 Florence (00 39 055 213 861)

LABORATORIO CAPRI

Olivia Palermo, actress: "Laboratorio Capri stands out from the island's costly designer boutiques. It's a charming store that sells fashion and home accessories. The lady who runs it has her sewing machine in the shop and will make clothes to measure, in addition to selling a great selection of brands."

Laboratorio Capri, via Ignazio Cerio 6, Capri, (00 39 081 837 6296)

L'INDE LE PALAIS

Matthew Williamson, designer: "L'Inde Le Palais, in Bologna, Italy, is a lifestyle store in the centre of town selling everything from fashion to music, trainers to dinner plates. I especially love the interior design - it's very classically Italian. Last visit I bought four black-and-white Fornasetti cushions and a turquoise lizard-skin belt." L'Inde Le Palais, via dei Musei 6, 40068 Bologna (00 39 051 620 3015)

PAROPAMISO

Athena McAlpine, hotelier: "I love visiting this shop in Venice, it sells magnificent tribal and ancient jewellery."

Paropamiso, 1701 Frezzeria San Marco, Venice 30124 (00 39 041 522 7120)

PENNELOPE

Tory Burch, fashion designer: "I discovered Penelope while travelling in Italy last summer. It has everything from Rodarte to Sacai to Dries Van Noten, all edited in a unique way."

TULSI

Christine D'Ornano, international vice president, Sisley: "Tulsi is in an ancient, sleepy village in Puglia, off the tourist trail. Irish-born Deborah Nolan has settled here and lives above her fabulous boutique, selling her own collection of desirable cotton pieces mixed in with other designers and accessories that you won't find anywhere else. I treasure my African bracelets and striped kaftan."

MARLIES DEKKERS

Liz Goldwyn, film-maker and author: "An amazing lingerie designer. Think Jean Paul Gaultier during Madonna's Blonde Ambition tour: dominatrix meets cotton and Lycra." Marlies Dekkers, Berenstraat 18, 1016 GH Amsterdam (00 31 20 421 1900)

Austria

LUDWIG REITER

Caroline Sieber, stylist: "Ludwig Reiter is a traditional Austrian bootmaker with the best made-to-measure boots, luggage, and fine leather accessories. Everything is handmade. The boots are hugely popular with English boys - a lot of men wear them shooting."

Ludwig Reiter, Fuehrichgasse 6, A1070 Vienna (00 43 1 512 6146)

PAINSWICK FABRICS

Plum Sykes, author: "Painswick Fabrics in Gloucestershire is a wonderful end-of-line fabric shop where you can find amazing one-offs for incredible prices; everything from metres of handwoven lace from Scotland, to lengths of Jean Monro fabric." Painswick Fabrics, New Street, Painswick, Stroud, Glos, GL6 6XH (01452 812616)

FLY

Tamara Mellon, chief creative officer, Jimmy Choo: "Fly is a fabulous boutique in Miami that sells beautiful vintage pieces in great condition, some never worn. I particularly love the bikinis made from old Pucci fabrics."

Fly, 650 Lincoln Road, South Beach, Miami, Florida (00 1 305 604 8508)

LOST AND FOUND ETCETERA

Belle Robinson, co-founder, Jigsaw: "Tucked away behind the unfashionable end of Hollywood Boulevard, Lost and Found Etcetera has a great choice of women's and children's clothes, along with quirky home furnishings. Local artists also exhibit here. Always inspiring."

Lost and Found Etcetera, 6314 Yucca Street, Los Angeles (00 1 323 856 5872)

ECLECTIQUES

Philip Lim, designer: "My newest discovery is this brilliant little boutique on the corner of Broome and Wooster with clothing, sculpture, photography and all sorts of interesting vintage. I last bought a rare black-and-white Roy Lichtenstein image and a cheetah-print fur collar from the Sixties there. You never know what you might find. That's the joy."

Eclectiques, 483 Broome Street, New York (00 1 212 966 0650)

MARYAM NASSIR ZADEH

Duro Olowu, designer: "I discovered this shop by chance while strolling through the Lower East Side. It has a beautifully laid out selection of womenswear, menswear and accessories by known and lesser-known contemporary designers, alongside vintage jewellery and objects. The edit is stylish, thoughtful and irresistible."

Maryam Nassir Zadeh, 123 Norfolk Street, New York (00 1 212 673 6405)

NEUE GALERIE

Derek Lam, designer: "I love the shop in the Neue Galerie. The store curator has assembled the most beautiful selection of Austrian homeware and jewellery, all unique to New York."

Neue Galerie, 1048 Fifth Avenue, New York (00 1 212 628 6200)
